MY STAY IN SLOVAKIA

We were in Bratislava, Slovakia for a week. We had normal school days, free time, traveling time and hanging out time. The school system was totally different from the Norwegian one. In Norway, we have different classes in each lessen except from the common subjects. However, there, all the students in a class are together all the time and they have all lessons together. I felt like all the student were friends and it felt like the school environment was different for the Norwegian one.

The thing I was most shocked about was the 11 years old students that are math geniuses. Like an 11-year-old student is learning the same math as a 17-year-old. I would never ever have thought about it.

To be honest, before the trip I was not sure if I was going to have fun in Slovakia or would be able to be friend with Slovakian students. Slovakian students were awesome and funny and I had a great time with them. After the school, we went outside and they showed us the city. I think it was more interesting than go out with the teachers.
I, personally, think that a week was too short. We could have been there like for another or to other weeks. I felt so bad and sad when had to come home. I really to go there on holydays and travel. On the other hand, meet the people I was known to.

What did I like the most was being friend with people we met at school and getting known about their interests.

The most interesting was was our trip to the castle and Slovakian food. Moreover, talking to Slovakian people was interesting.

The biggest difference was was our daily life. The students in Bratislava don't go home directly after school, but they go and drink one or two glasses of beer.

The biggest surprise was kebab. Well, kebab is known in Norway because of foreigners from Middle East. However, I didn't saw any foreigners in Bratislava. Therefore, I am wondering how kebab became so popular in Slovakia.
