MY STAY IN SLOVAKIA

I am glad I got the opportunity to be apart of a very nice trip to the capital of Slovakia. During the week, I got many new friends and experienced a lot.

At school, we had mathematics and physics with the Slovak students, and learned a lot about Slovak history and their country. In addition to this, we had pretty much spare time and got to see a lot of Bratislava.

Some students showed us around in the capital, and visited two castles with old construction, and beautiful details. After school, in the afternoon, we walked around in the old part of town. There it was many snug cafés, where we sat down and had a coffee or a piece of cake. The buildings in this part of town was old and beautiful, and are very different from the buildings in Drammen.

We also had some social activities, and I got to know the ones I traveled with a lot better during the trip. I really enjoyed the hockey game we watched, but I was very bad at laser tag.

I really liked the old part of the city - the monuments and the old streets. I am grateful I got to visit this country, because I don't think I'd go there by my own initiative.

The biggest surprise was…

The thing that surprised me the most was how forthcoming the Slovak students were. They were so interested in our country and wanted to know so much about us. Some even offered to spend the afternoon with us, just to show us around. The Norwegians, they aren't known as the nicest and most polite people, so it shocked that they still wanted to get to know us.
